A Plague of Scandal
on Both American Political Houses

With fine impartiality the senate investigations subcommittee yesterday censured the national committee chairmen of both political parties for conduct that, in the language of the report, was "bound to lead to charges of impropriety."

Thus rebuked were William M. Boyle, Jr., who resigned under fire as head of the Democratic National Committee, and Guy C. Gabrielson, who is still chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The rebuke of both party leaders in line with editorial criticisms you have read in this column. While the case against Mr. Boyle seemed the more obvious of the two Mr. Gabrielson's public morality was no better, and we called for his resignation months ago. He still hasn't resigned, but not even the tough hide of the Republican elephant is going to be able to withstand yesterday's scorching rebuke.

Our own Democratic senator, John L. McClellan, was among the committee members signing the report.

A word about the so-called borderline case involving Mr. Gabrielson: While holding the Republican committee chairmanship Mr. Gabrielson appeared before the RFC and obtained a loan for Carthage Hydrocol, Inc., Texas gas refining company in which he was a heavy investor.

In the course of his RFC investigations the other Arkansas senator, J. W. (Bill) Fulbright, disclosed that Mr. Gabrielson, a wealthy man, and the multi-million-dollar Hydrocol firm were excellent credit risks and the government made a sound loan—but Fulbright denounced the morality of a political titleholder asking personal favors of a government board.

Let us look at the language of the report issued by the investigations committee:

"It (the report), said yesterday's Associated Press dispatch from Washington, laid down a principle that 'none of the major political parties whether paid or unpaid, hold positions in the nature of a quasi-public trust. They must refrain from any acts which are illegal, immoral, or patently improper; but as expected of a public official—they must also avoid the appearance of wrong-doing by avoiding that type of activity which might lead the public to believe or suspect that chicanery is taking place.'"

"Two thousand years ago a great citizen of Rome stated the creed of republicans in a single sentence: 'Caesar's wife must be above suspicion.'"

The reference is from Plutarch's 'Life of Julius Caesar.' "Julius Caesar (B. C. 100-44) divorced his wife Pompeia, but declared at the trial that he knew nothing of what was alleged against her and Clodius. When asked why, in that case, he had divorced her, he replied: 'Because I would have the chastity of my wife clear even of suspicion.'"

Mining Claims Go Before Court
Hot Springs, Feb. 1 (AP)—A controversy over an estimated 2 to 4 million dollars worth of mining claims is being aired in Garland County Chancery Court.

A hearing in the dispute, centering around 11 barite mining claims in Montgomery County, Ark., opened yesterday. The claims were listed in the estate of the late J. E. Henderson, Mt. Ida, Ark.

Barite is used to weigh the mud for drilling oil and gas wells. Henderson's heirs, who filed the suit in Montgomery County last February, are seeking to recover royalties on the claims paid by the National Lead Co., of Los Angeles, Calif., to J. C. Roehm, J. G. Cazort and Jerry Witt, all of Mt. Ida.

The plaintiffs, B. W. Thomas of Hot Springs, administrator of the estate, and E. Randall and J. Stacy Henderson, Goldie Mae Rout and Gladys M. Frierson, all formerly of Mt. Ida, contend that Henderson was mentally incompetent when he signed leases to the claims over to the defendants.

Babysitters' Spree Brings Trouble
New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The New York spending spree by three teenage Massachusetts babysitters has the Latin Quarter night club in trouble over its liquor license.

The girls, Roberta McCauley, 15; Eileen Jeffrey, 17; and Marilyn Curry, 18—came here last October from Nahant, Mass., with $18,000 in cash to open while babysitting in a physician's home.

They allegedly bought drinks at the Latin Quarter. Under New York law, a person must be 18 to be served liquor.

It was disclosed yesterday that the big Broadway club is to lose its liquor license for a week, starting Monday. The State Liquor Authority had allowed the club members to take care of parties and booked before imposing the penalty.

Although the bar will close, unless saved by a last-minute appeal, the cabaret's dining room will remain open and its floor shows will go on.

Gifts Flow to Highway, State Executives

By LEON HATCH

Little Rock, Feb. 1 (AP)—A road contractor testified today that he paid W. M. Treadwell of Morrilton, a member of the State Alcohol Control Board, $10,850 commission on crushed rock he furnished for a road project in Pope county.

Ernest Freshour told the Highway Audit Commission that Treadwell suggested in 1950 that he increase his bid for furnishing crushed rock to allow him Treadwell 70 cents per cubic yard for truck rental.

Freshour, who with three brothers operates a contracting firm at Sweet Home, near Little Rock, said that he agreed because "we needed the work, were heavily in debt—and still are—and we felt like that was the only way we could get the job."

Previously, testimony had shown that while the state was paying Freshour Bros. $2.50 per cubic yard, the equivalent of $2 a ton, it had a price quotation on file of $1.50 a ton for similar material at the same location.

Freshour testified that he first learned the state might buy some crushed rock for the Pope County job on Highway 95 while he was reconstructing a part of a highway in Conway County during a period between August, 1949, and July, 1950.

He said at the time the brothers understood that they were to be subcontractors under Treadwell. Morrilton automobile dealer, if they obtained a contract for furnishing the material. They decided on a bid of $1.80 a cubic yard, he said.

Later he was told there had been a change in plans and the Freshour firm was to bid directly to the state.

Freshour said that at a conference at Morrilton, Treadwell asked him to add the 70 cents to the agreed $1.80 rate. He said he did so despite the fact that he had equipment of his own to haul rock a distance of several hundred yards from the quarry near Atkins to the crushed and had included use of his own trucks in the $1.80 bid.

He was asked "was that not an exorbitant rate to pay for truck hire?"

"I'll have to admit it was," Freshour replied.

Freshour said he was surprised when he submitted his revised bid to the Highway Department after an invitation for bids had been published and found that he was the only bidder.

He identified copies of three checks represented the agreed truck rental on 15,550 cubic yards of rock, which his firm supplied.

He said that he delivered the checks to Treadwell and that at no time did he ask how the trucks were performing or other details.

Its a Penalty Now if You Didn't Buy Auto Tags

Its a $3 penalty every 10 days now — if you failed to get your automobile tags by midnight, Jan. 31. In fact the $3 penalties pile up until it reaches the cost of the tags.

Revenue department workers who stayed late last night said some 2,700 tags were sold — about average for Hempstead County.

City automobile tag sales also were about normal at a little over 1,200 according to City Treasurer Charles Reynerson.

Truck Drivers Strike Over South, Midwest

By The Associated Press

Some 20,000 AFL truck drivers in 15 Southern and Midwest states struck today in a wage dispute with operators.

The strikes virtually paralyzed operation of freight companies in the 15 states. The effects were felt immediately throughout much of the Eastern half of the country.

The strikes hit the South from the Carolinas to Texas and in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Ohio. The longhaul truckers were ordered out at midnight by the AFL Teamsters Union against approximately 500 companies.

The Federal Mediation Service in Washington was keeping an eye on the strike situation. But there was no indication what the government's next step might be.

Last minute agreements between the union and operators of nine Midwest states averted a walkout of another 36,000 drivers.

But strike orders to Southern truckers had been sent out to local unions from headquarters of the Southern Conference at Memphis, Tenn., after contract negotiations collapsed.

"The strike is on," said W. M. Miller, chairman of the conference. Miller estimated that at least 100,000 drivers, with a 10 a.m. union and city pickup and delivery drive.

Russia Called a Breaker of Treaties

Paris, Feb. 1 (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly approved today an American-backed resolution labeling Russia a treaty breaker for failing to live up to its 1945 Friendship Pact with Nationalist China.

With almost half the members not voting, the ballot was 25 to nine, with 24 abstentions and two members not present.

TOO EARLY AND TOO LATE: The armed services regretfully turned down an application for enlistment from a San Francisco, Calif., miss because of her birth date — she was born in 1942, slightly under enlistment age. Marsha Holt, 9, left, said in her application: "I want to be a WAG in the Air Force. I'm only 9½ but I can carry papers and do other things. My father was let Lt. Garner C. Holt. His grave is in the Golden Gate Cemetery. Please take me." A total of $1,227 in back pay and disability is owed to her for the Army for services in Korea, says Riccardo Del Vecchio, right, of Detroit, Mich. Discharged four months ago, Del Vecchio has asked the Veterans Administration to intercede for him. With him are his son, Mark, and his wife Ubaldina. (NEA Telephoto)

Cigarette Tax Cutback Is Ordered

Washington Feb. 1 (AP)—The price of cigarettes in Arkansas will be cut two cents a package beginning March 1.

The price-cut order came from the Office of Price Stabilization yesterday. It virtually overrode Arkansas' so-called "fair trade practices" law, Act 101 of 1951.

The act, which prohibits retailers from selling cigarettes below cost, went into effect June 6, six months after prices had been frozen. An order allowing Arkansas retailers to raise their freeze prices to levels required under the law was issued in September.

OPS said the rollback in Arkansas is necessary because other states have sought to raise their cigarette prices. OPS said it would be discriminatory to refuse their requests while allowing a boost in Arkansas prices.

The 1-cent government tax and 2-cent state tax adopted last year will not be affected by the cut. Under the new order cigarettes will cost from 22 to 24-cents a pack. They now sell for 24 to 26 cents; minimum price a carton is $2.33.

At Little Rock, Assistant Atty. Gen. Cleveland Holland said he believed emergency powers granted to the federal agency gave it authority to supersede a state law.

Did You Ever Jot Down Your Thoughts and Impressions While Waiting on a Bus?

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Cross-section of a man's mind waiting for a bus:

Look at all the people on the street tonight. . . Boy, I bet if a mad dog ran up right now you'd scatter too. . . But if I had a gun I wouldn't. . . With a cane a fellow is pretty safe against attacks by mad dogs. . .

Why did men ever let themselves be jeered out of the habit of carrying canes anyway? . . . I'd carry one if everybody else did. . . A thorn cane with a big knobby end. . . Canes feel good. . . A man never knows what to do with his hands when he's walking. . . With a cane in your hand you're two inches taller. . .

What if a mad dog jumped me right this minute? . . . Why, I'd be helpless. . . You think the cops would help you? . . . Not them. . . They're too busy writing out traffic tickets. . . They'd probably arrest you for obstructing the dog's path. . .

Mothers' Polio March Nets $915, Report Incomplete

Hope Mothers held their polio march last night and first reports, incomplete, show collection totaling $915, bringing the Hempstead total deposited to date to $2,805.

However, others of the rural areas have not turned in funds collected and it is hoped the total will go well over $1,000. Funds from special programs are yet to be turned in along with the counter "Iron lung" coin catchers which are distributed in the downtown area.

Saturday night at Hotel Barlow all proceeds from a dance being staged by the young people of this section will go to the polio drive. The dance starts promptly at 8 o'clock.

Car Abandoned By Check Artist, Stolen in Oklahoma

Officers of this section continued to search today for an unidentified man who tried to pass some checks at Emmet two nights ago and eluded Prescott officers shortly after.

State Police today reported a car which the man abandoned had been stolen September 30, in Oklahoma City.

The name listed on the checks was Corbit Young. He was described as 30 to 35 years old. After being stopped at Prescott he fled on foot abandoning the auto.

Opinions Vary on Dismissal of Primaries

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—President Truman's dismissal of state primary elections as eyewash brought sharp reports today from Republican contenders for his job.

Harold E. Stassen said: President Truman's statement is an example of the cynical attitude of the Pondergast machine toward the rights of the people."

Gov. Earl Warren of California said: "The election process in this country is never eyewash."

Stassen added in a statement that the primaries are "the people's best chance to influence the selection of their own leaders in both political parties."

Democrats generally shied away from comment, but Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) said he agreed with the President.

He and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) have been pushing for congressional action to install party primaries in all the states.

"By saying presidential primaries are eyewash and don't mean a thing, President Truman put his finger on an evil I'd like to do away with," Smathers said. "The people should have some say so in the selection of candidates for president and vice-president."

Sen. Douglas, noting he was not seeking a row with the President, urged that "presidential primaries be expanded rather than contracted."

He said nominations at conventions now are controlled by about 1,000 party leaders "who frequently nominate men whom the people do not want and ignore others whom the people do desire."

Three other Democratic senators—Edwin C. Johnson (Col.), Anderson (NM) and Kerr (Okla.)—agreed with Truman's claim that he can have his party's presidential nomination — if he wants it — without bothering about state primaries.

The President's comments came after he said his name would be withdrawn from the New Hampshire state primary, first state presidential preference contest on March 11.

Prescott, Blevins on 'Phone Co. List For Rate Hikes

Little Rock, Feb. 1 (AP)—Southwestern Associated Telephone Co. has filed application to raise its rates to residential customers by 40 per cent and to business customers by 80 per cent.

The company, serving 10 Arkansas exchanges, asked the Arkansas Public Service Commission yesterday to make the proposed rate increase amounting to $280,344 effective March 2.

Augusta, Blevins, Cotton Plant, Marvell, McCrory, Prescott, Texarkana, Waldo, Waterloo and Wheatley exchanges are served by the company.

Chinese Want to Limit Inspections

Panmunjom, Korea, Feb. 1 (UP)—The Communists demanded today a sharp reduction in the proposed post-armistice inspection of Korea in a move that could shield long stretches of the Yalu river from neutral observation.

The Reds proposed that the number of ports of entry for each side — which would be open to inspection by neutral teams supervising armistice terms — be cut from 12 to three. They also demanded that the number of inspection teams be trimmed.

Both reductions would mean sharp curtailments of the inspection program proposed by the U. S. Allies want 40 inspection teams to enforce the armistice, with 15 working behind the lines of each side and 10 held in reserve ready to rush to any point where armistice violations might be reported.

The Allies asked the Reds to "reconsider" their stand on the number of ports of entry.

The Reds also objected to the U. N. proposal that neutral teams be allowed to roam in a radius of 30 miles from each port of entry. The Reds suggested no plan of their own but said the U. N. area was too large.

The U. N. meanwhile proposed that Switzerland, Sweden and Norway be named to form the neutral inspection teams.

The Communists made no immediate comment on the suggestion and did not express any choice of their own neutral nations to supervise an armistice.

The suggestion came as Allied and Communist staff officers completed their initial joint review of the detailed U. N. blueprint for armistice supervision.

A U. N. communique said only minor differences were uncovered in the first study of the full blueprint. But the question of restrictions on military air build-ups during an armistice, the key block to agreement, was not even touched upon by the staff officers and remained unsettled.

There was no reply from the Reds today to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy's proposal that they open discussions immediately on the fifth and last item on the true conference agenda. The Reds indicated they would answer Saturday.

Republican Takes Job to Clean Up Government

Washington, Feb. 1 (UP)—Attorney General J. Howard McGrath announced today he had chosen Newbold Morris of New York to assist him in the drive to rid the government of corruption.

McGrath said he chose Morris with President Truman's approval. Morris was made a special assistant to the attorney general in connection with the investigation into "misconduct by employees of the federal government, and to make recommendations to strengthen the integrity and efficiency of the entire administration of governmental functions."

McGrath said he is sure Truman "joins me in an expression of appreciation to Mr. Morris for his willingness to undertake a task we hope will result in renewed strength to our country in Democratic processes of government."

The President recently designated McGrath to take charge of cleaning up corruption exposed in congressional investigation of scandals.

The house judiciary committee this week voted to investigate McGrath and his management of justice department.

McGrath said he assured Morris that "he will have my complete and unqualified cooperation and that all of the facilities of the various agencies of the government which I administer or which can be made available through the office of the President will be at his disposal."

"No one is more anxious than as attorney general to have charge of misconduct in public office thoroughly and impartially investigated," McGrath said.

He was president of the New York City Council when the Florio H. La Guardia was mayor. He was defeated for mayor in 1945. In 1949 he ran again as time as a fusion party candidate and was defeated by incumbent William O'Dwyer, who subsequently was appointed U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

McGrath was a close associate of La Guardia and has been known as an anti-Tammany reformer.

McCarthy Denounced by Mr. Truman

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP) — President Truman today denounced Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) as pathological and as a character assassin. The President let go at the Wisconsin senator at a news conference in response to questions about McCarthy's Senate speech earlier this week on Philco Nash, a special White House assistant.

McCarthy said Nash, a special assistant concerned with minority problems, had close associations with Communists in the 1940's. Nash denied it.

Snapping back the President referred to the Wisconsin senator as the pathological Mr. McCarthy. He said the attack on Nash was the same kind of attack McCarthy has made on all government workers he does not like.

A reporter recalled McCarthy has said FBI reports linked Nash with Communist associates and asked the President if the FBI did have such reports.

Truman responded with a question: Does he (McCarthy) ever tell the truth? And he added that if McCarthy does, he (the President) does not know it.

Truman went on to say that McCarthy does not need information to be a character assassin that's his business.

And, with an edge in his voice, the President said he himself was not talking with immunity.

McCarthy, as a senator, is immune from lawsuits growing out of his remarks on the Senate floor. The President, speaking on such an occasion as a news conference, does not have such specifically defined immunity.

Truman said there are two or three definitions for the word pathological in the dictionary.

Webster's New International Dictionary, second edition, gives the meaning of the word as "morbid; due to disease; as pathological tissue."

It also defines the word as "of or pertaining to pathology," which is defined as the science of treating diseases.

The President would not give permission for reporters to put in quotation marks his words character assassin or the word pathological.

News conference rules forbid direct quotation of the President without his permission.

His comment today was the most caustic he has directed at the Wisconsin senator by name, although he has denounced McCarthy by implication many times.

McCarthy began in 1950 a series of charges that the administration particularly the State Department, has been penetrated by Communists.

Truman has contended his administration took prompt action to get rid of any Communists.

Little Rock, Jan. 31 (AP) — Gov. McMath and C. Hamilton Moses have clashed again on the question of public vs. private power.

Moses, president of Arkansas Power & Light Co., met with the governor yesterday to outline his firm's proposed expansion program.

Moses told the governor that no industry had been forced to leave Arkansas or had been diverted from the state because of a power shortage.

"I have never had to refuse power to any industry," he added.

McMath has charged that defense plants were not being located in Arkansas because of a shortage of power.

Moses said his company has tried to be "a good citizen of Arkansas" and has concentrated on extending rural electrification in areas of the state allocated to the company.

He said AP&L now has the highest property assessment — 33.2 million dollars — of any utility in the state, adding that he expects it to increase several million dollars a year for the next several years.

As the conference ended, McMath pledged the co-operation of his administration to the firm's proposed expansion program. He also brought up the subject of the Arkansas Electric Co-operative Corporation's proposed 10-12 million dollar steam generating power plant and transmission system in North Arkansas.

The Arkansas Public Service Commission authorized construction of the project following a lengthy hearing. Output of the plant would be turned over to the Southwestern Power Administration, which in turn would supply power to the three rural distributing co-ops that make up AECC.

The AP&L and other large utilities opposed the project.

McMath told Moses: "I have co-operated with you personally and in my capacity as governor, but I was not able to go along with you on the Ozark plant. You and your board members asked me to intercede with the PSC to deny that plant but I think we need that power."

"I will support any program to get more power within this state whether you, the government, or the co-ops build it."

Moses replied that his firm did not object to the right of the rural co-ops to construct generating plants but opposed the turning over of the power to EPA.

McMath then added: "There's a difference of opinion there. I think the power is going to be built."

There's a difference of opinion there. I think the power is going to be built."

Hasty Action

Dear Miss Dix: For the past few months I have been going with a boy from another town who was visiting here. Shortly after he left I was in his home town and called him. His Mother said he wasn't home. When I returned here, I received a letter from a mutual friend saying the boy had been in when I called. That hurt me so much that I sat down and wrote him a nasty letter, saying lots of things I didn't mean. Then, two weeks later, I had a letter from him, saying he had thought he cared a lot for me but guessed he was mistaken. I still like the boy, and would like to get things straight between us. How can I?

Answer: You certainly jump to, and act on, hasty conclusions. You were very wrong, for one thing, to accept so readily an explanation given by an outsider. Even if your friend was in when you called, he may have had a reason for not wanting to come to the telephone. Since his mother answered, perhaps he never even knew of the call. So why this haste of yours to immediately write nasty letters? You are assuming a lot from a few months' friendship.

You certainly owe this boy an apology, whether or not it succeeds in mending your broken friendship. Write him as nice a letter as you can, and tell him you're heartily sorry for the unwarranted tone of your previous epistle. In the future, watch your temper and avoid such disagreements.

Unwanted Mother

Dear Miss Dix: I am in my 40's and have worked hard to raise my girls. Now they are married and in their own homes. Since my husband died they want me to come live with them, but I know I won't be happy there. I have very little money, it's true, and they help me out, which they hate to do. They live in a big city, seldom come to see me and when they do it's to fuss about the money they send. I feel if they are tired helping me out now, they'll be twice as tired of me if I'm living with one of them.

MRS. J. Answer: You are very much better off to stay where you are, Mrs. J. Since you have your own home, you'll be much happier than living with someone else—especially a daughter who'll begrudge you anything she gives. At least where you are, you only have to listen to their fussing occasionally; if you move into their homes, you'll have it continually. One of the oldest mysteries in the world is why a son or daughter begrudges a few dollars paid to a needy parent, but will go out and spend a much larger sum on entertainment or some unnecessary luxury.

Dear Miss Dix: I am in love with a boy I have known for five months. He is in service, and last week he wrote and told me he is engaged to a girl and expects to marry her when he comes home. But still he says he loves me. Should I believe him?

F.M.W. Answer: Your friend's dilemma is not too common. A homesick boy is liable to emotional upheavals that wouldn't happen were he at home. However, as you're both young, don't take him too seriously. Answer this letter in a friendly manner, treat his declaration of love lightly and extend congratulations on his engagement. Let him make the next move, but keep yourself busy with other friends in the meanwhile.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a boy of 18 attending college. I am very fond of a girl who is a sophomore at high school. I think she likes me, too, but she is going on 15 and her parents do not wish her to go steady. Therefore she will not express how she feels about me. I, too, feel she is too young to go steady but I would like to know if she likes me.

A.S. Answer: If the young lady goes out with you, or corresponds with

Royal Pair Plan Another Big Tour

London, Jan. 31 (AP) — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh set out today on another long tour, to give new millions in the British Commonwealth their first glimpse of royalty.

The slim, 24-year-old princess, who someday will ascend the British Throne, goes with her husband, this time to three continents—Africa, Kenya, Ceylon, off Asia's southern tip, and "down under" to Australia and New Zealand. Ahead of them are five months and 30,000 miles of visits designed to help hold Britain's shrunken empire together.

A true royal sendoff was set for the couple's departure by planes from London Airport (7 a. m. EST). King George and Queen Elizabeth arranged to take three year-old Prince Charles and 17 month-old Princess Anne to the airport to wave goodbye to their traveling parents.

Also due at the airport was Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who knows as well as the next man the value of royal tours in you, it's fairly sure she likes you. Further than that she should not, at her age, express her feelings. She is, after all, scarcely more than a child and you will do well to follow her parents' wishes.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 18 and go with a boy 18. When we are alone, he is very nice and understanding to me, but when we are out in company he is altogether different. He is moody and almost ignores me.

JOSEPHINE L. Answer: Many boys, still going through the awkwardness of adolescence, fear the kidding of their friends over attentions to a girl. This attitude is, of course, very ill-mannered and childish, but is characteristic of many teenage boys. If you are a diplomatic young lady, you can help him acquire poise and encourage better manners in him. He will have to be led tactfully, or you'll lose him forever.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 22, single and in love with a married man four years my senior who has one child. I see this man, every day, and know he loves me. He won't leave his wife because of their child and I wouldn't want to break up his home anyway.

HELEN Answer: Regardless of how sure you are that you can't forget this man, and will always love him, you're wrong! You can forget, you can stop loving him—and you must. You certainly can see no future in the relationship so why waste your youth over a man who really cares nothing for you except as partly to a pleasant flirtation?

Federal Tax at Least Slows Gambling

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP) — A revenue official says the new federal gambling tax has virtually halted illegal gambling in the United States but he added: "I don't know how long the honeymoon will last."

Eugene Coyle, the revenue bureau's expert on the gambling tax, said yesterday the new tax has choked off 90 per cent of the nation's estimated 20 billion dollar-a-year illegal gambling business.

The majority of the gamblers still operating, he said, are small fry.

Coyle said "most of the big time gamblers have closed shop" because they are afraid to reveal their illegal operations to police, the public and the press as the new law requires.

In another development, the Federal Communications Commission ordered a probe into how gambling are using Western Union telegraph wires.

Western Union had proposed to put new regulations governing transmission of horse and dog racing news into effect midnight last night, but the FCC ordered a postponement until May 3 to give it time to hold public hearings.

It said it wanted to find out, among other things, whether the regulations violate constitutional guarantees such as freedom of speech and the press, and whether they will successfully cut off service to illegal gambling interests.

In New York a Western Union holding the Commonwealth together.

Today's departure for Elizabeth and Philip comes just six weeks after they returned from a 75-day triumphant tour across Canada and back with a short side visit to President Truman in Washington.

On this new trip, they are substituting for the king and queen. The parents' long-planned tour of the Antipodes was cancelled months ago because of the Monarch's ill health.

Elizabeth and Philip fly first to El Adem, in Libya, then across Africa to Nairobi, Kenya. They will stay in Kenya a week, part of the time making their first visit to the hunting lodge which the colony gave them as a wedding present.

At Mombasa they will board the liner Gothic and will sail to Ceylon. The couple's Australian tour starts at Perth on April 1 and the New Zealand tour at Wellington May 7.

spokesman said the company "caught" in the middle several courts have held that racing and other sports information is legal. He said the company itself is anxious to cut off transmission of legal information.

Regarding the federal gambling tax, Coyle gave these figures:

A total of 8,813 gamblers on the nation bought tax stamps in December compared with 1,500 in November. The first month under the law. Most of these were operators, such as public house and dealers in states where public boards are legal.

Gamblers reported about 10 million dollars in business for November and paid the 10 per cent tax amounting to more than $1,000,000.

This sum, added to the $333,000 paid in for tax stamps, brought collections from gamblers through December to $882,504. Congressmen estimated when they passed the law that they might get 400 million dollars a year in revenue.

Coyle said he believed most gamblers now in business are buying federal stamps, and the law's collections reflect a "treimendous" drop in gambling.

"In some cities you can hardly find a bookmaker to take a bet," he said.

Under the new gambling law most bookmakers, punchboard operators and numbers operators must buy a stamp $50 for a year, list their places of business and give other details of their operations. Then they must pay the government 10 per cent of their total business. This information is available to local police, and can be given to the press and the public.

A breakdown of taxes and stamps shows that business in November was best in Ohio, where gamblers paid 10 per cent of a $1,000,000, Louisiana was second with $303,920, in total business and $31,770, in total taxes. Minnesota third with $282,000. Minnesota reported five cents in taxes, amounting 50 cents in total. Most states reported no gambling for November.

Fair Enough

Frankfurt — With terrible warnings of war's devastation on every hand in the ruins of great old churches, mansions, modest homes, and factories, Americans in Europe, particularly Germans, conduct themselves as though Gen. Eisenhower's whole command were a fake organized for some cunning political purpose. Now I would not say the officers, sergeants and civilian carpetbaggers who have brought their families here to clutter up the battlefield and get burned and buried in the ruins of their homes or railroad stations or shelters have a calculated distrust of the supreme command. But they have been encouraged to loosen their clothes to relax when it is obvious that if the is on the level, the whole area should be cleared of all noncombatant Americans including the female clerks whether in uniform or not.

At Eisenhower's headquarters outside Paris recently I tried to get a conclusion of this situation. This American force, thus far the nucleus and muscle of the United Nations, is ready to fight and at least half expects the Russians to start that fight any minute. That is the frank basis of all this preparation. And two generals at shape who knew the formidable number of camp followers gathered around our European army admitted that no field army expecting an attack should encumber itself with wives, children, mother-in-law, dogs, cats, goldfish and cuckoo clocks. Yet one general turned to the other and said, "Well, my wife's here and so's yours and so's Ike's so how can we tell lieutenants and sergeants that their wives can't come too?"

"That's a fair way of putting the case. Generals have no more excuse than the lower ranks for bringing their wives into a field of war where they are really planning to fight and suspect the enemy of a plan to make a sneak attack. This expedition and all the awkward, disconcertingly slow construction jobs in France are justified to the people, who are paying the price in sons and taxes by an alarm over Russian military power and demonstrated hostility. If all this is just maneuvers, that's one thing, but that is not what any of them say it is. Yet by these indications well within the zone of a couple of days striking by maximum Soviet power Truman, Eisenhower and all the rest of them give ground for the suspicion that this is just another of those familiar election year crises of the party of humanity to create jobs, false prosperity and a cakewalk for unions by the only method Roosevelt and Truman ever knew — war.

Our generals seem so sincerely convinced that we are more likely to be attacked than to find some way of standing off a war that I cannot find it in myself to suspect them of rattling the thunder-sheet just to scare us. I have heard their little plans, which seem as weak as Belgium's against the Kaiser and Hitler, and heard like explain how they can anticipate any blow now and rob it of surprise. I even heard one engineer boast that we could defend the Rhine, which was two minutes after he boasted that he organized the invincible storming of the Rhine by the Americans against a tired but almost fanatic army of the best soldiers in the world.

But if the Rhine is to be our line of defense, our first firm stand after brief rearguard actions, why does the American command act like Pancho Villa, whose peons and cowboys brought their women, children, pots and kettles trailing along with them. There is always the first excuse that single men in barracks don't grow into plaster saints. But not to put too fine a point on an old truism, which is worse for the United States of America, a rising veneer curve, which nowadays is transient thanks to drugs Columbus never heard of nor grandpa nor even paw for that matter and a few scars on the soldier's conscience which seldom last more than a few days, or a terrible rout of an American army shooting over its shoulder at the enemy as husbands and fathers try to outdistance one another for transportation to the rear for their loved ones? If this is just a field exercise let them

Prize Cardinal Called by Draft

Leakeville, Miss. Feb. 1 (AP) — Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, Texas League strikeout artist, will report for military induction Feb. 14 under orders announced yesterday by his draft board.

The St. Louis Cardinals had tapped him as a prospect after he paced his league with 237 strikeouts last year.

He won 18 and lost 14 games, but held opposing teams to a 1.96 earned run average.

The 21-year-old left hander was classified 1A after a physical examination last month. He said then that he hoped he could play baseball in the Army to keep his pitching arm in shape, and have enough "stuff" left after two years of military service to play major league ball.

Arkadelphia to Play Hope Here Tonight

Hope Junior and Senior boys basketball teams will play hosts tonight to a pair of teams from Arkadelphia in district competition.

The four teams met last week at Arkadelphia and the locals posted a double win. The Junior boys had an easy 38 to 22 victory by the Bobcats tallied a 45 to 39 decision.

Hope has one victory to its credit this week having defeated Nashville there. The next game on the schedule is with Prescott here Tuesday night.

all come, but if it is a stand against an enemy who can almost throw grenades from his jumping off place into Darmstadt, Heidelberg, and Stuttgart this is no place for tourists. As matters have been explained to me, not many of these women and children are going to get away anyhow and those who do will jam up the roads like the wheelbarrow coveys that the Stukas ripped to bloody tatters in Belgium. The evidence on every hand in the ruins produced by relatively clumsy bomb attacks from distant bases seems to have no warning effect on our generals.

The Germans are bright and pink and eating far better than the English, and for that matter much better than some of our own if only because they know how to kill a pig and make the most of him.

whereas we have become heavily chicken inn and the can opener. It is hard to believe they are survivors of the awful scenes only a few years ago which left so much of their old cities in ruins and so many of their relatives burned or buried in the tumbled arches of brick and fallen walls or carved gray stone. They are a strong people. Whether they will fight with us against the Russians is still an anxious problem, but they are in a bargaining position and if we want them for soldiers on our side we have to give them a chance to become a nation again.

There is always speculation as to how New York or Chicago would stand an atom bombardment. It is a terrible thought, but the British and Germans present proof that the human breed is indomitable and whatever our immediate conduct under the first attack there is no reason to doubt that Americans would react simply as a people who can adjust themselves to the kindest things. But if Truman, Ike and the rest of them really want to sell their war to the people of the United States, their next move should be to tell the German soldiers out of the field and let them go.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 1 (AP) — In the firm belief that any complete sentences uttered by Casey Stengel deserve to be passed along to the nation's baseball fans, we are happy to present a selection of the famous manager's observations during his first press conference of the 1952 season.

There may be instances in which the reader will not be too sure what Casey is talking about and will wish that the pilot of the world champion Yanks might have taken his hand a way from his mouth while speaking, but think nothing of it. That is one of the professor's principal charms. We give you him:

"Now these big young fellows I've got, every club is asking about them, but I won't give up five players for any one player. These boys I've got, they can hit that ball over your head and they want in."

"These kind of players, the club's got 'em and I'm selfish and I don't want to give 'em up. We win this pennant, so why should we trade? Strangers sometimes annoy you. Sure, I was anxious to get that fellow Garver."

Ned Garver, St. Louis Browns pitcher last year, but I had to change my mind about giving up too many players.

"They keep saying I'm bringing 'em along too fast, these young fellows. How about Mantle and McDougald and Morgan? They didn't hurt us much last year did they? How about that Branch Rickey? He's bringing 'em along fast at Pittsburgh, isn't he? He'd better."

"Who's going to take Joe DiMaggio's place in center field? Why, somebody ought to be able to catch a ball out there. All he's got to do is keep running until he gets to the ball. That's all that fellow with the Giants Willie Mays, presumably did, wasn't it. I hear he did pretty good."

"Maybe I'll have to put Gene Woodling out there, but I'd rather keep him in left. Nobody in the league can play left field at the stadium like he does. If I could tell you how good Mantle's leg's going to be maybe I could tell you whether we'll win another pennant. But I don't know, and neither do you."

"Tell you one thing, I've got the best first baseman in the league. Fellow named Joe Collins. Only ones I'll put above him are Fain of the Athletics and Robinson of the White Sox. Like a star?"

He was crippled last year. He was a liability to Cleveland. If his leg's well, that changes the picture; we'll put him third."

"Don't ask me what's going to be my lineup. I can't even tell you during the season."

"I'll have good pitching. Some of 'em will be a year older is all. Allie Reynolds is going to be all right. His arm is only swollen up about twice its normal size now. That's a fine sign. I've never seen a club that had to many pitchers."

"Cleveland should be the club to beat. They finished second last year, didn't they. And they haven't lost anybody."

"Yes, we've been having a little rain out in Glendale. Fact is, it's the most damn rain we ever had. When a man walks in the house he doesn't look for his wife, he looks up to see if the ceiling's leaking. If it ain't leaking everything's all right."

Egypt Premier Ready to Talk With Britain

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 31 (UP) — Premier Aly Maher Pasha is ready to negotiate Egypt's dispute with Britain, a foreign office spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the new premier was prepared to "accept any proposals which would satisfy Egypt's national aspirations."

When he took office Sunday after King Farouk ousted the old Wafdist government, Maher strongly supported Egypt's demands for evacuation of British troops and annexation of the Sudan under the Egyptian crown.

Maher said today the strong Wafdist Party headed by former Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha has agreed to join him in a national political front.

The national front will map Egypt's policy line in her dispute with Britain.

The government shook up the nation's top security posts and warned "unruly elements" that army and police forces would shoot at the first signs of new disturbances.

Interior Minister El Maraghy Be disclosed in a formal declaration that attempts have been made to spread new panic and incite trouble with false rumors.

"Unruly elements have started spreading untrue rumors about false incidents to spread panic among the people and thereby carry out their criminal plans," he said.

He said the country was quiet and the government was in firm control of the situation. But government forces have been ordered to shoot immediately at any sign of "aggressive action," he said.

Cairo itself was still tense and a feeling of nervousness persisted of the two divisions of the Palms Pura at Hialeah.

New Orleans — The Gink ($9.30) won Golden Meadow Pura at Fair Grounds.

Oldsmar, Fla. — Gay Tex ($5) won Safety Harbor Pura at Sun Beach Park.

IT'S "GOT A LIGHT"—A cigarette with a built-in lighter is the invention of Ernest Heimo, chemical manufacturer of Frimburg, Switzerland. Tobacco in the cigarette is saturated with a secret material which ignites when rubbed gently against side of the package. There's no flame and no need to puff to start. Several European and American tobacco firms are reportedly interested in the idea.

Power Places Men in Hall of Fame

New York, Feb. 1 (AP) — For the second straight year power has overshadowed pitching prowess in selections for baseball's Hall of Fame.

The nation's baseball writers reached into each of the major leagues today for the latest additions to the shrine at Cooperstown, N. Y. They knewed the late Harry Heilmann, a great right-handed hitter for Detroit in the '20s, and Paul (Big Poison) Warner, who came along a decade later to belt out base-hits for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Two sluggers — Mel Ott of the New York Giants and Jimmy Fox of the Philadelphia Athletics — were last year's nominees and no one was picked in 1950.

So the last pitcher to reach the Hall of Fame was Mordca (Three Finger) Brown, picked in 1949.

However, if this year's voting is a barometer of things to come, one of the pitching starts of the modern era probably will be honored in the near future.

That is Dizzy Dean, iron-winged right hander of the St. Louis Cardinals in the pre-World War II days, who was one of the four highest men in the balloting.

A total of 234 votes were cast with 75 per cent needed for election. Heilmann with 203 and Warner with 195 got in easily.

Next in line were Bill Terry, former first baseman and manager of the New York Giants, and the fabulous Dean, who was a workhorse until his arm went lame from too much duty. Terry received 155 votes, Dean 152.

Then sentiment turned back to the hitters with Al Simmons, the oldtime Athletics star, and Bill Dickey, the Yankees' brilliant catcher, following in that order.

Heilmann died of lung cancer last July 9 at the age of 52, reportedly thinking he a life day had been chosen for the lofty baseball honor.

Ty Cobb, one of Heilmann's great boosters over the years, is said to have told the one time Tiger outfielder that he had been chosen by the special Old Timers' Committee.

Later it developed only the baseball writers could make the selection as Heilmann had played in the last 25 years.

A native of San Francisco, Heilmann was a powerful six-footer who starred for the Tigers between 1914 and 1929. He won the American League batting championship four times. He had a lifetime average of .342.

Warner, who with brother Lloyd formed the famous "Big and Little Poison" team of the Pirates, played in the majors for two decades.

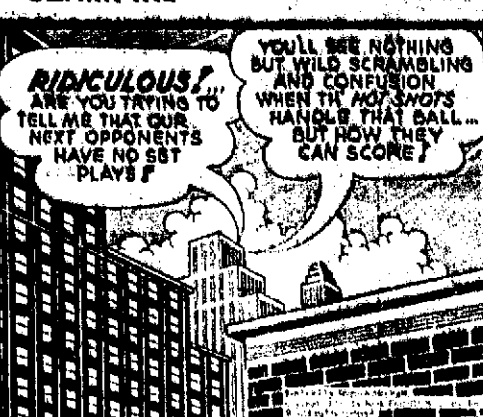

He joined the team in 1926 after breaking in with San Francisco in 1923. He played with the Pirates through 1940 and then did service with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves and New York Yankees before hanging up his glove in 1945.

Suit Filed to Bar Meters at Conway
 Conway, Feb. 1 (AP) — A lawsuit to prevent the city of Conway from purchasing 400 parking meters from Duncan Parking Meter Co. of Chicago has been filed in Faulkner County Circuit Court.

'Politics' Charged in Proposed Loan

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP) The government is considering a $55,000,000 loan to a firm involved in charges of political favoritism and influence in past loans.

The Defense Production Administration (DPA) confirmed today that the Central Iron and Steel Co. of Harrisburg, Pa., has applied for the new loan from DPA and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

If granted, it would be one of the biggest RFC loans since World War II.

The same firm figured last years in a Senate Banking Subcommittee report charging that a group with White House contacts influenced the granting of millions of dollars in RFC loans.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), gave this picture of $8,300,000 in RFC loans it said were granted to Central Iron and Steel in 1949 for "obscure" reasons and "by a 'freak action'."

The company then was slated for automatic rejection of its loan request because of "severe defects in its financial policies."

Before the "automatic decline," however, William E. Willett, then a member of the RFC board of directors, had Hubert D. Steele substituted as loan examiner in the case.

The loans then were granted "over the objection of all examiners and reviewers with the single exception of the substitute examiner, Hubert B. Steele."

An RFC spokesman, queried by a reporter today, said payments on the 1949 loans are up to date and the company is considered in sound financial condition.

One month after the loans were approved, Steele left the RFC and was employed at $15,000 a year by a group including Joseph H. Rosenbaum and former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass.).

Rosenbaum, a Washington attorney, was quoted in testimony at the Senate RFC investigation as having claimed he had "Director Willett 'in his hip pocket.'"

Rosenbaum swore he never said anything, including the one that first made him coats a household word as a symbol of alleged government "influence."

Casey was described as a "principal advocate" of the Central Iron and Steel Loan. He as well as Rosenbaum denied any wrongdoing.

The new $55,000,000 loan is sought by Central Iron and Steel to expand production of the metal for the defense program.

Lawmen Offer Nationwide Primary Plan

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP) A plan for nationwide presidential primaries went before Congress today.

The sponsors, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), said the plan would not require a constitutional amendment and could apply to the 1952 campaigns.

Primary voting, as envisioned in the proposal would not bind convention delegates but probably would exert a "strong persuasive influence" on their decisions, Douglas and Bennett said in a statement.

They said their purpose is "to bring about greater direct participation" by the people in the nomination of candidates for President and vice president.

Under the plan, the attorney general would be directed to work out agreements with the various states to conduct presidential preferential primaries for the major political parties.

The federal government would share the cost of the primaries, paying the states up to 20 cents for each vote cast. The states would provide election personnel, registration books and other facilities. A 10 million dollar ceiling would be put on federal expenses.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla) this week introduced a proposed constitutional amendment that would replace the convention system with district primaries.

"However," Douglas and Bennett said, "it takes a long time to secure the passage of constitutional amendments and the bill which we are introducing can be enacted promptly by Congress and take effect for 1952 elections."

Smathers, although approving the plan, expressed doubt that states where legislatures do not meet this year could adopt primary legislation before the 1952 convention.

To qualify for a place on the primary ballot, a candidate would have to produce petitions signed by at least 500 voters in each of 38 states.

Bennett told a reporter there would be no interference, under the plan, with the presidential primaries now conducted by various states. Such primaries as are presently binding on convention delegates would continue to be binding, he said.

The Duncan firm are not the cheapest meters that can be purchased. Good said the city could save about $5,000 by purchasing meters from Michaels Art Bronze Co. of Conway, Ark.

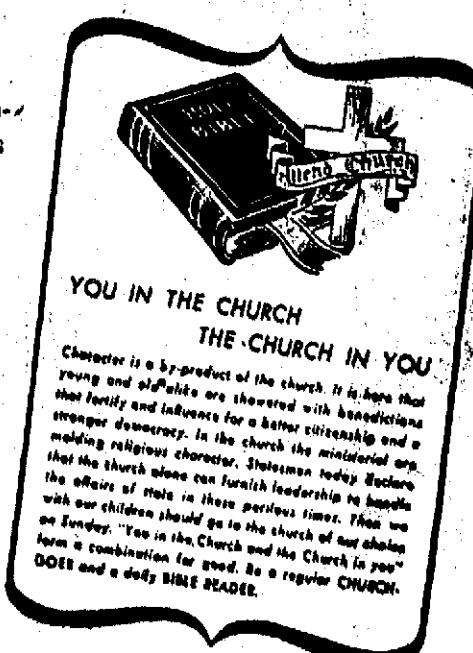

The Conway firm submitted a lower bid than Duncan for the city contract, but the Duncan firm's bid was accepted.

The Hope of America

There is the hope of America... young life with all its promise of usefulness and of idealism. Typical of millions of young Americans is this young fisherman. He matches the country with its marvelous resources. He is healthy, energetic and creative. His tattered, rugged body and keen sense of humor declares him capable of his share of tomorrow's responsibility. God planted rich values in the heart of this young man. He will sustain this young fisherman as he grows himself useful to humanity.

This young American has a keen sense of morality, the goodness of the omnipotence of God... he goes to church. His virtues are many and he lives by the Golden Rule. He observes the habits of all of us every day. He is a dreamer. May we help him to dream dreams of worth and usefulness and to plan worthy ends he is to seek. He is your boy and mine. May we as good people assist in planning his program, his life. He is ours to mold and inspire. Let us take him to church regularly and stamp him or bend him for all the tomorrows.
